

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

09/136820

A water power machine comprises a drive means and a drive output means which are interconnected by a lever drive assembly. The drive means comprises a motor operated by downward movement of water, the water being lifted again by a conveyor operated by power taken from the drive means, whereby the water power machine operates with a comparatively small amount of water by virtue of utilising a circulating amount of water.

SEARCHED
SERIALIZED
INDEXED
FILED

BEST AVAILABLE COPY